

Psychology Alumnus Testimonial

“What I will remember the most from my time in Greensburg is the overwhelming amount of support I got from all of the faculty and staff. I had the greatest advisor ever (Dr. Jessica Everly) that outlined everything I needed to do if I wanted to achieve my goal of becoming a clinical psychologist. She saw I was serious, and went so out of her way to help me. The same can be said for the rest of the faculty in the Psychology Department at Pitt-Greensburg. They all played a great part in where I am today.”

— Eugene Olaiya, Class of 2014

Eugene Olaiya graduated in 2014 with a major in psychology and a minor in philosophy. Eugene’s internship involved shadowing a licensed clinical psychologist at her private practice. Eugene was a teaching assistant for Dr. Jessica Everly’s Experimental Learning course, and a research assistant for Dr. Russ Phillips, where he studied geek identity, and presented two posters at a student conference in Pitt-Johnstown. Eugene was a Resident Hall Assistant for three years, and active member of Psi Chi and Student Senate. Eugene received his doctorate from Xavier University and is currently a clinical psychologist in the Nevada VA system.
